Meals are made from local produce and cooked in a traditional Falkland style. Rates are negotiable for larger groups interested in self-catering if preferred and campers are always welcome.

CAMPING

There are no campsites as such in the Falkland Islands. Camping is permitted in certain areas, but should be regarded as being 'raw' camping. Except in a few exceptional cases, campers are expected to be completely self-sufficient for all requirements. All land in the Falklands is privately owned, and therefore permission must always be sought from the land owner before going onto their land for any reason. In addition to any specific requests the land owners may have, the following set of guidelines must always be observed.

1. NEVER light fires for any reason. Where cooking is permitted, it must always be on a paraffin or gas cooker and supervised at all times. During the summer, the grass can get very dry. Combined with the strong summer winds, fires can quickly get out of control and spread rapidly, posing a threat to pastures, fences, buildings and livestock. If a fire burns into the peat, it can continue burning for many years.

2. Always leave gates as you find them.

3. Do not approach or attempt to interfere with any farm animals.

4. Take all of your litter home with you.

5. Do not take your vehicle off the track without prior permission. If possible always let someone know where you are going and how long you intend to be. Some areas of farms will be out of bounds during lambing time (September – December).

Bold Cove Farm is situated in a scenic area of West Falkland, near Port Howard. There are some basic groceries available, with more things available if enough notice is given. Campers are welcome to use the bathroom in the farmhouse for hot baths. There is excellent trout and mullet fishing close by, with a vehicle available for hire, or for a guided tour of the area. There is a cairn at the back of the settlement to commemorate the 400th anniversary of the first sighting of the Falklands.

Estancia is under 1 hours drive away from Stanley by an all-weather track, set between the mountains of Wickham Heights and the eastern end of Port Salvador. There is no charge for camping, although there are no facilities or groceries available. There is excellent fishing near the settlement. Estancia was of strategic importance during the conflict of 1982, and there are some sites relating to battles nearby.

Falkland Landholdings Ltd

Falkland Landholdings Ltd is a local company that owns four farms: Goose Green, North Arm, Fitzroy and Walker Creek. Each of these farms has its own Manager. All the farms do allow camping, with the prior permission of the Manager. There are general food stores at Goose Green, North Arm and Walker Creek, with varying opening hours. Most will open on request, subject to prior arrangement with the Manager.

In addition to the guidelines mentioned above, the following must be observed at all times:

- There is a strict policy of no dogs allowed on any farm for any reason (other than the dogs used in farm work).
- No fires are permitted and all cookers must be supervised when in use.
- All rubbish must be brought back to the settlement for disposal.

There is varied wildlife to see on all the farms, including penguins at Bull Point (North Arm) and New Haven (Goose Green Farm), but this does vary depending on the time of year.

Dolphins can often be spotted in the inlet just below the house.

Spring Point

Owners	Ron and Fiona Rozee
Address	Spring Point Farm, West Falkland, Falkland Islands
Telephone/Fax	+(500) 42001

Spring Point Farm is situated on a wide peninsula of land between Port Philomel and Queen Charlotte Bay on West Falkland. It has miles of untouched coastline, with sheltered coves and white sand beaches that are a beachcomber's paradise. The settlement itself retains much of its original charm and character, complete with its own Gaucho coral. There are colonies of Striated Caracaras (Johnny Rooks), some breeding red-backed hawks close to the settlement and colonies of cormorants nesting all along the coastline. Meat and vegetables are always available and basic stores can be arranged with enough notice. There is no road to Spring Point, so all arrivals and departures must be by air or sea.
